

INTERMEDIARIES ABROAD:
SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS WHEN WORKING WITH INTERNATIONAL INTERMEDIARIES

Thursday, May 16, 2013
10:00 -11:00 am PDT
1:00 - 2:00 pm EDT

Co-sponsored by Grantmakers for Effective Organizations (GEO) and the International Human Rights Funders Group (IHRFG)

Making grants around the world requires different types of due diligence, relationships and understanding of culture and context. Everything from language to local politics and policies can pose a challenge to effective grantmaking. Many funders work with internationally-focused intermediary grantmakers, both U.S.-based and abroad, that serve as trusted partners and bring deep knowledge of the region.

This webinar explored the role of the international intermediary grantmaker and discussed special considerations and best practices for working successfully with them.

Speakers:

- Rajasvini Bhansali, Executive Director, International Development Exchange (IDEX)
- Nick Deychakiwsky, Program Officer, Civil Society, The Charles Stewart Mott Foundation
- Samar Haidar, Grants Program Manager, Arab Human Rights Fund

This webinar was the second in a three-part series by Grantmakers for Effective Organizations (GEO): Smarter Relationships, Better Results: Making the Most of Grantmakers' Work with Intermediaries.

MEMBERS ONLY:

Watch a recording of the webinar here.

You can also view The Right Relationship and Is it Working? Evaluating Progress and Effectiveness of Work with Intermediaries, the first and third webinars in the series.

As this telebriefing was open only to grantmakers (i.e. closed to the public), we respectfully request that you do not disseminate this link beyond your own circle of grantmaker colleagues