

Rosalie Nezien, Program Officer, American Jewish World Service

Rosalie joined the American Jewish World Service grants department in October 2009 and is currently the program officer for the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Liberia and Senegal. Before coming to AJWS, she worked at the Firelight Foundation for two years where she supported grassroots organizations involved in the response to and prevention of HIV/AIDS in eastern and southern Africa. She has also worked with Plan International and BONEfonden in her native country of Burkina Faso. Rosalie holds a Master of Science degree in organizational management from the School for International Training in Vermont.