

Telebriefing:

EVALUATING THE EVALUATION: SHARING LESSONS LEARNED FROM "M & E" PROCESS

June 06, 2012

Organized by American Jewish World Service

Description:

"Monitoring and evaluation" has gained significant prominence over the last several years in a variety of sectors. Many funders have dedicated – or plan to dedicate – significant resources to evaluate the quality and impact of their grantmaking.

In 2010, American Jewish World Service (AJWS) commissioned an outside consultant to evaluate their grantmaking for relief and rehabilitation efforts after the 2004 Indian Ocean earthquake and tsunami.

What they learned from the evaluation process was just as valuable as the evaluation results.

Funders joined Melissa Extein of AJWS in this funder briefing and learned about their evaluation experience, and exchanged with grantmaker peers on lessons learned, guidelines, and other useful resources for engaging in effective "M&E" processes.
