

Funder Tele-briefing:

US HUMAN RIGHTS
FUND

Human Rights At Home Campaign

Wednesday, October 27, 2010, 3:00-4:15 pm EDT

The Human Rights at Home (HuRAH) Campaign is a coordinated effort by U.S. human rights and social justice groups to improve federal, state and local accountability to human rights. The Campaign is mobilizing grassroots and grassroots constituencies and elected/appointed officials to achieve these changes on myriad fronts. Specifically, HuRAH seeks to:

- Revitalize the Interagency Working Group on Human Rights to coordinate federal agencies around U.S. human rights obligations in domestic policy and provide a forum for joint accountability.
- Transform the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights into a U.S. Commission on Civil and Human Rights.
- Secure and institutionalize effective federal and state systems of domestic human rights monitoring and enforcement.

Join Us

This Tele-briefing will provide updates on the status of the Campaign's efforts, details about successes and challenges, and time for questions/discussion.

This briefing is sponsored by the U.S. Human Rights Fund and IHRFG.

Dial-in: 213-416-6650

Access Code: 839632

Please RSVP

Contact Sasha Hammad:
shammad@publicinterestprojects.org

Program

Introduction by Sue Simon, Director of Human Rights, Public Interest Projects

Lisa Crooms, law professor and activist (Campaign Chair) will discuss HuRAH's recent activities and describe how the Campaign is working to change human rights culture in Washington and beyond.

Cathy Albisa, NESRI (Co-chair, Social Movement Engagement Subcommittee) will discuss her Subcommittee's efforts to mobilize constituencies interested in securing human rights accountability mechanisms across the United States.

Q & A